THE LIQUOR CASES.—In reference to the liquor dealers who were yesterday indicted by the grand jury for violating the Sunday law, Judge Norton, from the bench, said this morning that as there had been some misunderstanding of what he had said last week, he would like to make it clear. He would be content in the matter. He therefore stated that if such of those indicted who had not previously been before him would plead guilty he would impose a fine of $25 and take from them their license for 30 days from the 15th of August next, in order that they might have time to dispose of any perishable goods, and that at the expiration of 30 days, if they have strictly conformed to the law and no objection is made to them again being granted licenses, he will issue such licenses. Those who have previously been before him on the charge of violating the Sunday law, he said, will have to stand trial before a jury, and in case of conviction he will revoke their licenses.

This evening the fourteen liquor dealers appeared, pleaded guilty, and asked the leniency of court. They were fined $25 each, required to pay costs and had their licenses suspended for 30 days from August 15. Only two of the parties had previously been indicted for this offense and on taking an oath to never again violate the Sunday law they were placed on the same footing with the other twelve.

As there is some question as to what Judge Norton hereafter said when he warned the liquor dealers against the violation of the Sunday law, the following is a reproduction from the GAZETTE of June 18, 1890. On that day several persons had been fined $10 and made to pay the costs, and Judge Norton in imposing the fine stated "that as this was the first time the parties had been brought into court on such a charge he would make the penalty light, but he gave public notice that the next similar case should be tried before a jury and that in case of conviction the licenses of such dealers would be revoked."

The stand taken by Judge Norton has caused much comment among the liquor dealers and others and his action was the principal topic of conversation on the streets to-day.
